What is the difference between safety and security?

safety	security
Safety can be defined as the state of being free from harm or danger.	Security can be defined as the state of being protected from crime, violence, or other harm.

What is a safe software and secure software?

safe software	secure software
Safety software refers to software that as its primary purpose improves the safety of an organization through the more efficient management of its safety protocols.	Security software is any type of software that secures and protects a computer, network or any computing-enabled device.